Free EngTech workshop

IFE

Interested in learning more about Engineering Technician Registration?

Whether you are already an IFE member or you are considering joining us, you could become an Engineering Technician with us which sets you apart from other engineers in your sector and shows your commitment to maintaining professional standards.

You don't necessarily need to have several years of experience and be working in a senior role to become professionally registered. EngTech is attainable for many young engineers.

Join us at our virtual workshop to discover more and hear useful guidance about the application process. Our friendly member services team will also be on hand to answer any of your queries.
